

This website was brought to my attention by a family member who suggested I post it on my blog for others to see. Upon viewing it myself, I couldn't help but want to post it. Here's an example of adversity turned into compassion. It is refreshing to hear stories, especially those involving people in our community, that chronicle pain transformed to love. This story in particular courtesy of a teacher and her husband who turned the death of their three-year old son into 1001 smiles.

Check out 1001 Smiles:

http://www.1001smiles.com/Index.htm

Believe, when you are most unhappy, that there is something for you to do in the world. So long as you can sweeten another's pain, life is not in vain.
~ Hellen Keller

Share this:

- Share on Facebook (Opens in new window) Facebook
- Share on X (Opens in new window) X
- Share on Pinterest (Opens in new window) Pinterest
- Print (Opens in new window) Print