

The “Saint of Love” never performed any such miracles…as raising the dead or making the cripple walk again. What she did do was to put others’ lives before hers in a life of humble servitude. Today, more than ever, THAT is a miracle. As many of us remember Mother Teresa today on the 100th anniversary of her birth, I’d like to share with you again a previous blog post about my unforgettable experience the day I was fortunate enough to be In the Same Room as Mother Teresa.

May the light of her love shine in your heart forever.
