

Okay so tomorrow is Fat Tuesday and you know what that means. Indulging in all the chocolate, cussing and badgering you wish in the hopes of getting it out of your system just in time for Wednesday.

Seriously? So Lent's almost here. I thought I'd toss around a few ideas on stuff to give up, in case that's the sort of thing you consider doing during this time:

- TV (or at least Glee)
- Alcohol (the kind you drink, duh!)
- Road rage
- Cursing (without it, road rage's no fun)
- Chocolate
- Gossip (unlike chocolate, it's not good for your health)
- Social networking (after 40 days you may end up realizing how much you can slash that Friends list)
- Texting (will re-acquaint you with your friends' voices in case you've forgotten what they sound like)
- Complaining (about Lent especially)

Good luck. And no, I won't list any of the things we can take on during Lent. We know what those are, don't we? Get ready.

Share this:

- Share on Facebook \(Opens in new window\) Facebook
- Share on X \(Opens in new window\) X
- Share on Pinterest \(Opens in new window\) Pinterest
- Print \(Opens in new window\) Print