

Thankful for the little things I have to look forward to. They don't all have to be big things, do they? The grouchy look on my "not-a-morning-person" kids' faces, because still I get to see them yet another day; the confused look on my cat Nervous Nelly, because she's just too weird-funny; my husband returning from a 4-day business trip, because that's the longest we've been apart ♥; spending time with a loved one I haven't seen in a while, 'cause what could be better?

What are some of the little things you have to look forward to and are thankful for?

"Who does not thank for little will not thank for much."

~ Estonian Proverb

Share this:

- Click to share on Facebook (Opens in new window) Facebook
- Click to share on X (Opens in new window) X
- Click to share on Pinterest (Opens in new window) Pinterest
- Click to print (Opens in new window) Print