

Bright Idea - I now carry a copy of Scenes Everlasting in my purse. For when I'm waiting in line, anywhere. Like today, for instance, I pulled into the drive-through at McDonald's for a LARGE caramel latte. The person ahead of me was perusing the menu as if it held the Secrets of the Universe, 15 minutes later ... still perusing. No, I did not honk my horn. No, I did not pull out my (imaginary) AK47. I just blissfully read my book and when he FINALLY decided which gourmet tidbit to purchase, I calmly ordered my latte ... I also keep a copy on my desk at the office. The better to thwap people over the head with (in my imagination, but still quite satisfying).
