

For summer-induced laziness, flip-flops, and beach towels. Happy first day of summer, everyone! Although, you'd think it's been here a while, judging from the temps we've been having. But yeah, the season that has the power to make us suffer and like it, is here. Can you feel it?

For Miamians, that means lots of heat, mugginess, and mosquitoes. Okay, okay, so add "extra" to that. Extra heat, mugginess, and mosquitoes. On the upside, that means traffic's lighter, we have daylight longer (to nap during thunder), and more excuses to take time off (as if we needed any).

Let me tell you, it's wonderful how God, in His immense wisdom, season-ized our lives (even if He overlooked Miami). Wishing all of you a safe and fantastic summer. Enjoy it, it typically flies by. And please remember to hydrate and use sunscreen.

Until next Thursday's post...si Dios quiere.

What are you thankful for today?

"Summer is the time when one sheds one's tensions with one's clothes, and the right kind of day is jeweled balm for the battered spirit. A few of those days and you can become drunk with the belief that all's right with the world."
-A.L. Huxtable

"Summer afternoon—summer afternoon; to me those have always been the two most beautiful words in the English language."
-H. James

Share this:

- Share on Facebook \(Opens in new window\) Facebook
- Share on X \(Opens in new window\) X
- Share on Pinterest \(Opens in new window\) Pinterest
- Print \(Opens in new window\) Print