

For love with a capital L.

Tomorrow is Valentine's Day. A day for celebrating love. And what is love?

Well, let me share with you what I believe to be love with a capital L:

"Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres."
– 1 Corinthians 13:4-7

Could this virtue be life's greatest blessing? I don't know. But I do know I wouldn't want to live without it.

For the love I feel in my life, today and always I am thankful.

Happy Valentine's Day, friends and family! Let's celebrate Love every day. ♥

What are you thankful for today?

Until next Thursday's post…si Dios quiere.*

"Being deeply loved by someone gives you strength, while loving someone deeply gives you courage."
-Lao Tzu

"One is loved because one is loved. No reason is needed for loving."
-Paulo Coelho

*Note: By the way, in case you're not Spanglish-speaking, "si Dios quiere" means God-willing. Mom finished most of her sentences with that phrase. I added it to my sendoff in her honor after her passing.

Share this:

- Share on Facebook (Opens in new window) Facebook
- Share on X (Opens in new window) X
- Share on Pinterest (Opens in new window) Pinterest
- Print (Opens in new window) Print