

For those making a difference.

Today, I want to give a really loud shout out to healthcare workers and people in the service industry who are on the front lines of this outbreak. These doctors, nurses, nursing home workers, and all those keeping grocery stores, pharmacies, and restaurant take-out operational, are putting themselves at risk in an attempt to help keep the rest of us healthy.

A lot of us can work from home. Not my cup of tea, I must confess. I don't think I'm cut out for it, but I realize how fortunate I am that I am given the option to do so. We who can, should, no, must, repay those out there not just with our heartfelt thanks, but by refraining from doing anything that will put the lives of others in danger. Let's do our part and act responsibly. It is critical.

Stay healthy, my friends, and keep the faith! This, too, shall pass.

For the remarkable people at the forefront of this fight who are making a huge difference, I am thankful. Let's pray for them.

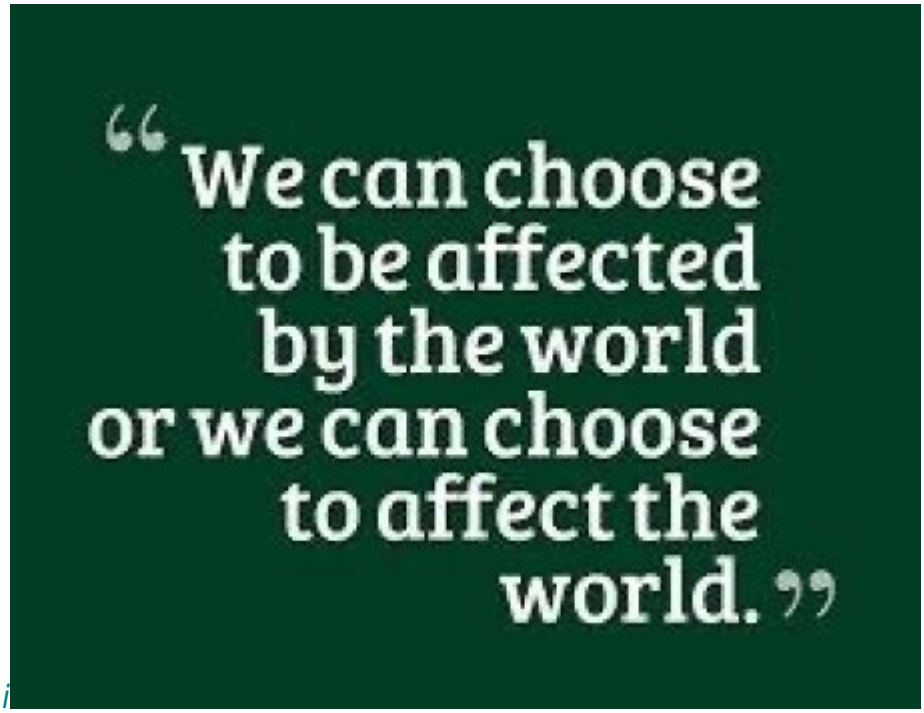

What are you thankful for today?

Until next Thursday's post…si Dios quiere.

"I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world."
-John 16:33

"Believe that what you do matters and will make a difference in people's lives. You don't have to save the world in one stroke but you can make a difference one person at a time."
-Anonymous

"It is wrong and immoral to seek to escape the consequences of one's acts."

-Mahatma Gandhi

Share this:

- Share on Facebook (Opens in new window) Facebook
- Share on X (Opens in new window) X
- Share on Pinterest (Opens in new window) Pinterest
- Print (Opens in new window) Print